

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

• Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's review!

Learning Outcome

Describe characteristics of different people and their jobs.

Ask your partner:

- What kind of events will happen for you in the next year?
- Will you get a new job? Will you go somewhere?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about jobs and work.
- I can ask for clarifications and introduce an opinion.
- I can talk about possible actions and events in the future.

Let's Explore!

Peter and Sally discuss their possibilities for the future.

* A "possibility" is an opportunity to do something.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Peter: So, did you meet the editor-in-chief?
Sally: Do you mean my boss? I'd say she's a straight shooter.
Peter: Can you explain what you mean?
Sally: She's an honest and straightforward person.
Peter: That's good. Some bosses can be horrible.
Sally: Could you be more specific, Peter? Are you talking about your boss?
Peter: Of course not. Do you think you'll always work for a magazine?
Sally: If I don't work for a magazine, I might work for another kind of publication ... like a paper. What about you?
Peter: I may apply to a PR firm if I see an opportunity.
Sally: You should. Personally, I think it's a great start and will open up many possibilities for you.
Peter: What do you mean by that?
Sally: Well, before you apply you may want to do some research. You can see who they work with. It may come in handy.
Peter: What about my hand?

Let's Practice!

Sally is excited about her job! What does she have to say about it?

Instructions: Select the words that talk about jobs and work.

This new job is a great start for my career. This experience will come in handy in the future. My boss is the editor-in-chief of the magazine. She used to work for a well-known publication.

Let's Practice!

Sally tells Peter about possibilities in the future. What are they?

Instructions: Write the phrases in the correct category.

Phrases

Before you apply
it will open up many possibilities for you I might work for another kind of publication
I may apply to a PR firm

if I see an opportunity.
you may want to do some research.
If I don't work for a magazine,

Condition

Result

Extension Activity

It's time to think of the possibilities.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Choose one of the options:
 - You are going to work for a magazine. Will you do it?
 - You are going to write an article for the newspaper. Will you do it?
- Which one would you choose? Write down 3-4 sentences explaining why.
- Write down the possible events and actions that may happen in the future because of your choice. Use words like before, after, and when in your sentences.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I tell a friend about possible events in the future.

☐ ☐

I talk about jobs and work.

☐ ☐

I write about actions related to work.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- editor-in-chief (noun): the person who is in charge of a group of editors (the editorial team)
e.g. Did you meet the editor-in-chief during your meet and greet?
- magazine (noun): a large thin book that contains news stories, articles and photographs
e.g. Will you always work for a magazine?
- publication (noun): a magazine, paper, etc., that is printed and made available to the public e.g. I might work for another kind of publication like a newspaper.
- to come in handy (expression): something that will be useful e.g. Doing research before you interview may come in handy.
- start (noun): the beginning of someone's job, which they will develop in the future
e.g. This will be a great start to your career.

Learning Points

Talking About the Future

You use the Future tense (you use the modal will in the Future tense) to talk about actions you are going to do in the future. You can also use the modals might and may to talk about actions in the future.

Might means there is a smaller chance that something will happen (30%).

May means there is a slightly greater chance that something will happen (50%).

Example: If I don't work for a magazine, I might work for another kind of publication; I may apply to a PR firm if I see an opportunity.

You can use the first conditional to talk about possible actions and situations in the future.

There are two parts to the sentence.

One part is the condition. The other part is the result.

Form:

If + subject + Simple Present tense + subject + will/won't*

You use a comma after the condition in this form.

Example: If I work for a newspaper, I will learn a lot.

* You can use other words instead of if, you can use before, after or when.

You can flip the two parts of the sentence so that the result comes first.

Condition	Result
Before you apply,	you may want to research the company.
After graduation,	we will open up a business.

Result	Condition
I will work for a magazine,	after I finish school.
I will apply for a job,	if I see one of interest.

Learning Points

Expressing Opinions and Asking for Clarification

When you talk to people, you can use different expressions for different things:

If you don't understand what a person is saying, you can ask for clarification.

If you want to share your opinion, you can introduce it with an expression.

Here are some expressions you can use:

Expressing an Opinion	Asking for Clarification
(Personally,) I think ... In my opinion ... I would like to point out ... The way I see it ... I'd say that ...	What did you say? Can you repeat what you said, please? Are you talking ... ? Could you be more specific please? Can you explain what you mean? What do you mean by that?

